insertion of long articles.SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1878.
The National Republican has been a legitimate daily circulation than all the other morning papers of the District combined.FREE schools are the enemy of the Democracy.
The enemy is reciprocated.Does the House want to overland the District with Egyptian darkness? It seems to be in the Egyptian business just now, even refusing free education to the masses.Let it be remembered in the coming campaign that the majority of the Democrats in the Senate put themselves on record against free educational facilities in the District of Columbia.The taxation of legacies, under proper restrictions, can be defended on many grounds; but the income tax proposed by our Democratic Ways and Means Committee is indefensible in times of peace.The intimation that General Grant is likely to be re-nominated as President in 1881 strikes terror to the Democratic soul, North and South. Don't worry, gentlemen; if the people will it, it will be so; if not, then not. "Fox populi vox Dei."The sagacity and bony economy of the House, or its criminal neglect in providing necessary appropriations for the public printing, has crippled every branch of the public service. All of the executive departments are behind in their work for this season.The American flag, the Stars and Stripes, which was the bloody shirt of the war to crush the rebellion, is the flag of the Republican party, and will be its "bloody shirt" in 1878 and 1880. Whenever and wherever that flag floats on the breeze, "our flag is there."The ex-Confederate House still refuses to put our public schools on a safe footing. If their doors are closed against the children of the country—for their pupillage embraces children from all the States and Territories—let the responsibility be placed where it belongs, with the Democracy.SENATOR HOWE'S enemies out in Wisconsin have forwarded to the President a protest or repudiation of the sentiments contained in his recent speech. They number six hundred, and are not strong enough to secure a single member of the State Legislature from the Democratic city of Milwaukee, where they all reside.A GAIN of fourteen districts from Democratic control would give the Republicans a majority in the next House. If the Senate should then become Democratic the balance of power would be on the side of right, for the House is the place in which propositions for taxation and appropriation constitutionally originate. These facts are worth remembering.The idea of nominating ex-Confederate Vice-President STEPHENS as the Democratic candidate for President of the United States in 1880 has not been abandoned by that gratuitous friends and admirers in the South, especially in his own State of Georgia, although he has positively declined to entertain such an ambition. There's no telling what Conciliation may do. It's a pity JERRY DAVIS' health is so poor.DEMOCRATIC economy, as illustrated by the course of the present House, simply amounts to a reduction of appropriations for every branch of the Government except the House itself. The result is deficiency bills, and an extravagant increase by the House over the amount required for its use while the Republicans were in the majority.
The figures prove the truth of these assertions, and should be carried forward for convenient use in the coming campaign.That section of the pension appropriation bill, which abolished the pension agencies throughout the country and provided for the payment of pensions through the Treasurer of the United States, was defeated in the House of Representatives on Friday last by a decisive vote. This is well.
No fault whatever has been found with the present system or in the conduct and management of the various offices, and a change might prove disastrous. Therefore let the agencies remain as they are.Now the Southern Claims Agents ask for appropriations to enable them to continue teaching the doctrine of secession in their Southern educational institutions. This is the truth underlying their proposition to reimburse aristocratic and pro-Southern William and Mary College, of Virginia, for alleged war losses. At the same time this same Democratic House refuses to appropriate a cent for the support of non-partisan public schools—schools for the children of the masses—in the District of Columbia.SECRETARY EVANS, speaking for the Administration, gravely announced in an interview out West the other day:
"We are nearly through with the Southern policy now. The greatest trouble that we have found has arisen from Republican appointments."So we find the Southern policy of the Administration to have been mainly an effort to appoint officers. To the average observer this effort would not appear to amount to a violent struggle, for there aretwo classes, only in the South from which officials could possibly be selected. They are Democrats who are opposed to and hate the Government as administered by Republicans, and Republicans who are in favor of and love it when so administered.THE New York Times' Washington correspondent thinks the District public school appropriation is opposed in Congress by a number of ultra Democrats, because hundreds of colored children are receiving excellent education in the public institutions of this misgoverned community. And his judgment is not far from right. He might have added, however, that the Democracy is opposed to the public school system on general principles.
The vote by which the appropriation was carried through the Senate shows this, for none but Democrats voted in the negative, and the prompt passage of the bill was defeated in the House by Democratic objection.It is boldly announced by the Democratic friends of Doorkeeper FIELD that he has renounced his allegiance to the United States, the Government that gave him his education, long before he took service under the Khedive of Egypt. There is no news in this announcement; but the boldness of the declaration discloses the wanton disregard of the Democracy for consistent loyalty. To complete FIELD's record of varied allegiance it is only necessary to add that he renewed his citizenship in the United States simply to get an office. The same notion, office-getting, induced him to become an Egyptian, and on occasion would, no doubt, induce him to become a Russian, a Turk, or a Paganian. Is he a patriot or a Hessian? But never mind, he's an ex-Confederate, a qualification which commands the admiration of the Democracy.In the spirit of true conciliation the Republican party and its leaders have never failed to extend the right hand of fellowship to ex-Confederates. In fact, many of them—JUDGE HUGHES, of Virginia; JUDGE SETTLE, of North Carolina, and now of Florida; JUDGE ARKMAN, of Georgia, and General LONGSTREET, for example—have been exalted to high official position by the Republican party in recognition of their return to loyalty. This is true conciliation. But the Democracy proceeds differently. It promotes ex-Confederates, or rewards them, simply because they are ex-Confederates, and degrades Union men simply because they are Union men.THE Hon. MARTIN I. TOWNSEND yesterday illuminated some of the darkness surrounding the efforts of the Opposition to open the way for the payment of the Treasury for losses incurred by Southern schools, churches, and public institutions during the war. This effort was shrewdly disguised in an appropriation for the relief of William and Mary College.
General Grant, while President, had the forethought to "pocket" a similar bill, and to characterize it as an entering wedge for a grand Southern raid upon the Treasury.
Mr. TOWNSEND'S speech yesterday, in which this illumination occurs, is well worth reading.
A fair synopsis of it is printed in our report of the House proceedings.THE Honorable (Miss) PLEASER of April 5, in referring to the visit of Mrs. CHESMOLD to that State to testify against her husband's attempted murder, says:
"Now the truth of the matter is that Mrs.
CHESMOLD never left Washington. She was not asked nor did she answer any questions, because she was not before the court. The prisoners have not been acquitted, because they have not been tried, the prosecution not being ready.
Judge HUGHES has nothing to do with the trial, as Judge HAMM presides in that district."We have the very best authority for saying that Mrs. CHESMOLD attended the Federal court at Jackson, the capital of the State; that Judge HAMM presided, and that the face of a trial was gone through with to convict for an attempt to murder Judge CHESMOLD on the day appointed for him to speak in advocacy of his interest as a candidate for Congress in 1876, at De Kalb.
Mrs. CHESMOLD was not allowed to tell her story in her own way, because that would not suit the purposes of the court and spectators. Those who attempted the murder were acquitted, much to the joy of the bull-dozers in that section of the country.BOSWELL is dead. There are few men who have filled public positions in this country whose death would attract so much comment as will follow from this simple announcement.
The best that can be said of him is that he was a warm and devoted friend—a characteristic that compensates for many bad qualities. Any other eulogy is out of place. His misdeeds were too colossal and bold as to command an acknowledgment to admiration; but justice and a due regard for the preservation of public virtue demands, even now that he has passed from mortal existence, that his crimes should not be forgotten. To praise him would be to incite emulation of them.
To make a hero of him, would be to overshadow the warning example of a career of corruption.
A prince in politics in extravagance, in charity, and in official misdeeds, he became a fugitive from his country, an executioner in the minds of his countrymen, a poor, broken-down, old man in prison, and died in a felon's cell. This is the lesson, and the only lesson, that his life should be allowed to teach.RESUMPTION APPROACHING.
It is not ill-timed that the Secretary of the Treasury has decided to enter upon practical resumption on the first of October next by receiving greenbacks at par for customs duties. The effecting of a sale of $50,000,000 of 41 per cent. for gold puts the Treasury in a fortified condition against the event of resumption, and renders it nearly an accomplished fact, as it is possible before the day named in the law.
This is good news for the country and will be hailed with delight in all business circles.Pending the consideration of the measure of resumption, the NATIONAL REPUBLICAN predicted this as the inevitable result of the success of that measure. The back of gold speculation was broken when the remonetizing of silver was authorized by law. Silver has been hoarded and gold has gradually receded in value until there is but a shadow of premium left, and that shadow will soon disappear.The Republican party had been in power for sixteen years without any necessity foran order to restrain the rights and privileges of citizenship, and it is difficult to discover any necessity for it now. If WEBSTER issued such an order in 1841 and then tyrannized, it affords no argument for a repetition of that history now, unless the present Administration proposes to follow his example to the end of the chapter.A MUCH-ADVISED MAN.
There are signs of serious commotion in the camp of the Opposition as the state COLORADO JEWETT approaches the seat of Government. C. J. is a man of the mighty deep, with a mighty deep mind for mastery.
He lays cables at the bottom of the ocean, and allays storms at the surface of the same.
When shipwrecked at Long Branch last year, he bid defiance to the jealous anger of NEPTUNE and went ashore in a hand-bask. To be sure NEPTUNE had it his own way for awhile after that, but C. J. was enabled to boast over the wires of the Associated Press that in a fragile hand-bask, as aforesaid, he had put to shame the efforts of the Sea-God to destroy one of America's Greatest Citizens. This was supposed to be the crowning victory of his life, and it was rudely hinted that the eager, yes, the yearning, Associated Press could record no greater achievement to the credit and further advertisement of this Noble Traveler—for he it known that his life is devoted, as it were, to travel in foreign lands and visits to foreign countries for the purpose of arousing the envy of the Old World because of the fact that America has produced such an Elegant Specimen of Complete Manhood, and incidentally, to get Government subsidies for his cable projects. But these rude hints, or expectations, have been dissipated into thin air, and the strictest kind of air nothingness, by the proclamation, over the Associated Press wires, of course, that he returns again to his native hearth intent upon instantly establishing or erecting a Great Conservative party. Everything C. J. does, or contemplates doing, does not benefit the people. But this erection is intended for the benefit of the pending Administration.
He is the friend thereof as he was the friend of General GRANT'S administration, and as he has been of all the administrations of this Government since CYRUS FIELD called the spirit of DE SAUTY from the vasty deep; and we heard from Queenstown that things were "All right, DE SAUTY!" But, alas, we fear that C. J. is doomed once more to disappointment, by which, however, he seems to thrive, on which he seems to feed, and with which his life of Constant Endeavor is overclouded; but which does not interfere in the least with the perennial habit of the Associated Press to advertise his leaving-takings and his return-greetings. He may have defied NEPTUNE in a hand-bask, and occupied a watery grave by means of a rope, that efficient agent in the termination of the mundane existence of our Great Public Speaker; but that he can, with all the mighty deepness of his mighty mind, establish a neutral ground in American politics, on which all men, regardless of party creed, can stand while they vote for his cable subsidy, is a sad mistake. Let the Opposition cease trembling, the Administration cease hoping, the Associated Press cease advertising, and C. J. cease scheming.
Things will remain as they are.THE economical fever of the House of Representatives reminds one of the fable of the farmer asking advice of his neighbor on the ex-oring law, which had its reply changed as to liability when it was found that a few hives had done the harming. Here are a few figures, which do not lie, for our friends to make a note of for the coming campaign, so that they can truthfully present to their constituents "the ways that lead to ruin." The salary of the President
